Kōra

Project Goal

Brand Concept

Brand Positioning

Develop a brand identity that uses color strategically to express purity, nature, and gentle skincare.

Kōra is built around the idea of returning to natural, plant-based care. The brand focuses on clean formulations, hydration, and everyday skin wellness. The identity is minimal, soft, and rooted in earthy elements, which aligns with the brand’s gentle and honest personality.

Kōra positions itself as a contemporary botanical skincare brand. The visual language avoids harsh contrasts and instead uses calm, earthy tones that reassure the user and highlight the brand’s focus on gentle formulations. The colors reinforce the brand values of purity, hydration, and natural care — making the identity feel consistent and trustworthy.

nourish your senses

Kōra was founded with the belief that true skincare begins with a deep respect for nature and the people who use our products. In an industry that often pushes complexity and quick fixes, we wanted to create something calmer, more thoughtful, and rooted in honesty. Our approach begins with understanding the rhythm of the skin—how it responds to climate, stress, time, and the environment. Every formula we create is carefully considered, using ingredients chosen not for trends but for their long-standing ability to soothe, nourish, and support lasting skin health. Inspired by the quiet strength found in botanicals, Kōra embraces the idea that skincare should feel like a moment of grounding in an otherwise fast world.

Our products use gentle plant extracts, hydration-rich blends, and minimal yet effective actives that work in harmony with the skin instead of overwhelming it. We believe that beauty routines should restore balance, build confidence, and bring a sense of peace, which is why our brand identity reflects soft natural hues, serene textures, and clean, uncluttered design. Everything we create—from packaging to communication—is guided by mindfulness, sustainability, and a commitment to transparency. At Kōra, we continuously explore ways to reduce waste, prioritize recyclable materials, and craft products that feel good not only for the skin but for the planet as well. We see skincare as a slow, intentional practice, where results grow with consistency and care rather than intensity. With every bottle, tube, or jar, we aim to offer more than a product; we want to offer an experience of comfort, trust, and natural harmony.

Kōra represents a gentle return to simplicity, where every ingredient, every color, and every detail is chosen to nurture, uplift, and reconnect you to the quiet power of botanical wellness. When you choose Kōra, you choose calm over rush, nature over noise, and a skincare journey that is as soothing as it is effective—crafted with patience, shaped with intention, and inspired by the timeless wisdom of the earth.

The color palette uses soft, natural greens to show that Kōra is a clean, nature-driven skincare brand. Green reflects freshness, healing, and trust, which matches the brand's focus on gentle, plant-based care.

The warm neutrals support a calm, minimal, premium look. Together, these colors communicate purity, relaxation, and modern skincare, clearly positioning Kōra as a soothing and reliable self-care brand.
